Answer both question 1 and question 2.

Question 1 (this accounts for 40% of the marks)

What difficulties arise when attempting to put people's mobility into categories such as economic migration, forced migration, refugees, internally displaced persons, asylum seekers, illegal immigrants, trafficked people, development displacement and environmental (or climate) refugees?

Question 2

Answer any TWO out of the following questions. Clearly mark which question you have attempted – if you fail to do this, the question cannot be marked. Each answer accounts for 30% of the marks.

2a) Assess the value of livelihoods analysis (involving assessments of household assets / capitals, as in the 'Sustainable Livelihoods Framework') in understanding how and why migration takes place.

2b) What reasons lead to someone migrating internationally instead of remaining within their own country?

2c) What linkages can be identified between migration and development?

2d) In relation to conflict, what is significant in whether people are displaced within their country or move to a foreign country?
