CALL FOR PAPERS

Special issue

The Seventh Nordic Conference on the History of Education

Trondheim, Norway, 19–20 September 2018

Presenters at The Seventh Nordic Conference on the History of Education are invited to submit their papers to be considered for publication in a special issue of the Nordic Journal of Educational History, which will be published in 2019 (autumn). The deadline for submissions is October 30, 2018.

The Nordic Journal of Educational History (NJEH) is an interdisciplinary journal dedicated to scholarly excellence in the field of educational history. The journal takes special responsibility for the communication and dissemination of educational history research of particular relevance to the Nordic region, but welcomes contributions exploring the history of education in all parts of the world.

The theme for The Seventh Nordic Conference on the History of Education is education and society in change. How has education and upbringing dealt with societal challenges and needs throughout the ages? How can educational history contribute in meeting today's societal challenges – such as increasing inequality, migration, climate change and technology? In what way can we best investigate these challenges historically?

The theme of the conference is wide and invites to multiple reflections and analysis. Educational history is today an interdisciplinary research field that includes researchers from various academic disciplines and has a broad thematic scope – from childhood history and youth history, through school, university and church history, to pedagogical history and ideology. We hope that the special issue will highlight issues related to the theme of the conference with multiple historical perspectives and methods.

The journal applies a double blind peer review procedure and is accessible to all interested readers. No fees are charged for publication or subscription.

Submissions should be between 35,000 and 65,000 characters (including footnotes and spaces). Both English and Scandinavian languages are accepted. No fees are charged for publication or subscription).

The submission should be marked “Special issue: Conference on the history of education 2018”
